ARCHITECTURE OF THEATRES.

A hand, fastidiously in such matters, finds the following points as the object of the author of 'The New Review,' which needs a special word of consideration. I perceive that a plan for a new theatre at Phila- delphia has been prepared. I presume that the plans for the new theatre in New York, to open on Thursday, will be shortly be- fore the public, and the theatre will be opened in a few weeks. I trust that the plans are designed with the greatest care, and I am confident that the theatre will be a great improvement on the old one. The plans are prepared byMessrs. MacDermott and McKim, who are well known as architects, and I am satisfied that they will be carried out in a manner worthy of the highest praise.

Waterworks.-In some parts of the city, the water supply is insufficient. Some of the waterworks are in a state of disrepair, and the pipes are old and rusty. The city authorities are making every effort to improve the situation. The water supply is being increased, and the pipes are being replaced. The city council has authorized the expenditure of a large sum of money for the improvement of the water supply. The city is also making arrangements for the distribution of water in cases of emergency. The water supply is being closely watched, and the city authorities are taking all necessary steps to ensure a sufficient and continuous supply.
