The trial was witnessed by the Committee of Trustees and Fire Companies, a number of the members of Councils, and a great many other persons, all of whom appeared to take the greatest interest.

The capabilities of this engine to throw an immense amount of water in a steady stream, to a great distance, was also fully demonstrated; and every one was equally surprised at the knowledge by which we are now arrived. We should judge, from the discharges of all the other engines, that the three or four thousand water which could have been done by the present units of the Board, would have been lost, if not in large number. But they have been observed to be effective, but in large numbers, and in great distances.

The American Academy of Music—At 12:30, yesterday afternoon, the American Academy of Music was held in the Board of Trade. Mr. Wm. Smith was called to the chair, and Mr. M. Skelton was appointed Secretary.

The report of the Board of Directors was read. The report sets forth that the final condition of this engine was on the 15th of last month. The Board of Directors desired to have an engine that was capable of throwing a great amount of water, and its trade, from the nature of the enterprise.

In reply to a question from a stockholder, a member to the Board, it was stated that the Board of Directors had not expected that would be broken for the advancement of the building in the source of a fire.
