of personal application. He was also exceedingly generous and charitable, giving with a free hand, and, as his Biographers say, with love and a desire to encourage and to keep up the moral and religious principles of society. He was a man of great ability and a great deal of good sense, and he was never known to be at variance with anyone. He was a man of great virtue and a great deal of good sense, and he was never known to be at variance with anyone.

The death of John Price Weillers, late President of the Select Council, was a great loss to the community. The Select Council is the highest executive body in the city, and the loss of such an able and efficient member as Mr. Weillers will be felt for many years to come.

Mr. Weillers was a man of great ability and a great deal of good sense, and he was never known to be at variance with anyone. He was a man of great virtue and a great deal of good sense, and he was never known to be at variance with anyone.

The death of John Price Weillers, late President of the Select Council, was a great loss to the community. The Select Council is the highest executive body in the city, and the loss of such an able and efficient member as Mr. Weillers will be felt for many years to come.

Mr. Weillers was a man of great ability and a great deal of good sense, and he was never known to be at variance with anyone. He was a man of great virtue and a great deal of good sense, and he was never known to be at variance with anyone.

The death of John Price Weillers, late President of the Select Council, was a great loss to the community. The Select Council is the highest executive body in the city, and the loss of such an able and efficient member as Mr. Weillers will be felt for many years to come.

Mr. Weillers was a man of great ability and a great deal of good sense, and he was never known to be at variance with anyone. He was a man of great virtue and a great deal of good sense, and he was never known to be at variance with anyone.

The death of John Price Weillers, late President of the Select Council, was a great loss to the community. The Select Council is the highest executive body in the city, and the loss of such an able and efficient member as Mr. Weillers will be felt for many years to come.

Mr. Weillers was a man of great ability and a great deal of good sense, and he was never known to be at variance with anyone. He was a man of great virtue and a great deal of good sense, and he was never known to be at variance with anyone.