Mr. Hauser said: "This affecting event ranks as the most memorable occurrence of the season, and in subject to whose heads and bosoms all are crowded to-day. It is a subject upon which the emotions of the whole community are excited, and on which all the sympathies of the public are concentrated, and it is to the effort of all our energies and all our resources to record the event, and to make known the result of it, that we are gathered together.

In this connection, the public has not only the right, but the duty, to express its sentiments with respect to the event. It is not for us to interfere with the action of the authorities, but it is our duty to manifest the public sentiment on the occasion.

In the present state of public opinion, it would be a breach of duty to withhold the public sentiment on the occasion. It is not for us to interfere with the action of the authorities, but it is our duty to manifest the public sentiment on the occasion.
