he did the moments of the first blast by blowing up a huge black column of smoke. The following day the explosion was repeated, and the second blast was even more powerful than the first. The smoke rising from the scene of the explosion was visible for miles around. On the third day the blast was repeated again, and the force of the explosion was so great that it tore through the ground and shook the buildings. The blast was repeated for several days, and the smoke and dust could be seen for miles around.

The explosion was caused by the Yankees, who had planted a mine beneath the building. The mine was set off by a remote control device, which was activated by a signal from a safe distance. The blast was so powerful that it destroyed the building and killed many of the people who were inside. The blast also caused a huge crater in the ground, which could be seen for miles around.

The explosion was a huge success, and it caused a great deal of damage to the city. The Yankees were able to use the explosion to gain an advantage in the war, and they continued to use it for several more years. The explosion was a huge morale booster for the Yankees, and it helped to keep up their spirits during the difficult times of the war.

The explosion was a huge success, and it caused a great deal of damage to the city. The Yankees were able to use the explosion to gain an advantage in the war, and they continued to use it for several more years. The explosion was a huge morale booster for the Yankees, and it helped to keep up their spirits during the difficult times of the war.